Allowable Subject Matter

6. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: upon close review of the claims, the prior art, and applicant's remarks it appears that the allowance of claims 31, 33, and 34 are appropriate.

Referring to the claimed invention, U.S. Patent No. 6,208,731 by DePond et al disclose a method of providing message notification in a telephone network, said method comprising: providing a data field of a CLASS signal associated with message status, defined as including a, and transmitting to a customer premise equipment (CPE) device according to a presence of a message or an absence of a message (col. 4, line 61 – col. 6, line 24).

U.S. Patent No. 6,498,835 by Skladman et al disclose a method of providing message notification in a telephone network having a voicemail server (Fig. 2a, 50), said method comprising: providing message status, and responding to a message server (Fig. 2a, 64) to transmit messages according to a presence of a message in said voicemail server and returning a message that no voice mail messages are currently retrievable from the voicemail server in an absence of a message in said voicemail sever (col. 4, line 21 – col. 5, line 6).

U.S. Patent No. 6,868,155 by Cannon et al disclose a method of providing message notification in a telephone network having a message storage unit (Fig. 1, 121), said method comprising: providing a display message associated with message status, and transmitting to a customer premise equipment (CPE) device (Fig. 1, 105) to transmit a display message according to a presence of a message in said message storage unit (col. 3, line 48 – col. 4, line 7; col. 5, lines 40-53).

None of the prior art disclose providing a pair of unique ID numbers associated with message status, defined as a first unique ID number and a second unique ID number, and transmitting to a CPE device the first unique ID number according to a presence of a message in said voicemail server and the second unique ID number in an absence of a message in said voicemail server as claimed in Claim 31.

7. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
